Thank you. Good morning to everyone. Welcome to our earnings release conference call for the 4Q of 2019.

We had another strong quarter with an important increase in our results. And starting on Page 3, we proudly announced the launch of our Digital Account focused on low-income individuals. This digital account is a natural evolution of our business and will be very relevant to optimize cross-sell and upsell opportunities, also to increase our product portfolio and our customers' loyalty. Today, they are more than 4.9 million clients, and we receive hundreds of thousands of credit requests on a monthly basis. In addition to that, we have more than 10 million individuals who have been our customers at some point.

As transparency is one of the main pillars, our digital strategy -- of our digital strategy, we have developed a clear intuitive credit card bill in order to provide the customer with a full understanding of the amount charged. Additionally, we have a team prepared to answer all questions and make any clarifications about the digital account, also through the chatbot.

We believe that credit is the main instrument for attracting, engaging and monetizing our clients. This is in our DNA, and we can address the biggest pain of our clients. Since 2011, we have granted more than BRL160 billion in loans to those individuals. And also the assertiveness of using data is another great advantage of the account. So allowing our credit and pricing models to be even more assertive in defining rates and limits, delivering to our clients exactly what they need.

On the next slide, we have some additional information about the app design process. The platform design and UX definitions were made together with our clients, so both in large centers and also on the outskirts. The idea was to experience the context of Brazilians' lives to identify when and how people use financial products and services.

So we have more than 200 hours of recording, interviewed more than 40,000 individuals, designed 18 different prototypes, and tested the better ones with more than 200 individuals on the street. This creative process enabled to deliver a very simple and intuitive app with a differentiated design which guarantees total clarity in the use of the digital account.

In the next slide represent some features of the digital account. Our clients now have access to a complete checking accounts, 100% digital, without maintenance fees, with the zero cost monthly transfer package, access to ATMs, deposits through slips, utility payments in addition to several credit products and services.

When opening the account, our clients will receive a zero fee card for debit and credit, and they have access to an emergency limit and personal credits with personalized rates and limits. In addition to that, we will offer discounts at drugstores, supermarkets and online stores through agreements with several partners. The launch takes place after a short period of soft launch, reaching more than 40,000 digital accounts.

Now our customer acquisition strategy will be based on six main pillars. First, offering to our active and former clients these benefits, also to the flow of potential clients requesting credit on a monthly basis, also using digital marketing, physical distribution network, new origination partners and a member get member program.

We are developing more features and we will add more products for credit such as also, including insurance for instance, also, including simple investment options that make sense to our clients, financial education content to have been in their daily lives and many other services such as mobile top-up. All these features are suited to increase the loyalty of our customers, helping them to overcome their financial challenges.

On the next slide, we'll bring some of our financial highlights. Credit portfolio ended the year at BRL23.8 billion, growing 16% year-over-year. And if you look at the core portfolio, it increased 20% in 12 months. We originated BRL1.8 billion in new credits in the quarter, 4% more than previous quarter, and 24% more than 4Q '18.

FINAL

We ended the year with 4.9 million clients, advancing over the 4.3 million in 2018. Our NIM remains strong at almost 20%, increasing over the last quarter and we posted a net income of BRL168 million in the quarter.

Total net income in the year was 600 -- BRL516 million, very important results, more than doubling the results that we had in 2018. This generated an ROE of 13.7% in the quarter and the adjusted ROE which is the best way to evaluate the bank's performance, ended the quarter at 24.6%.

For the 12 months ended on December, the adjusted ROE was 22.5%. And we ended the year with BRL4.9 billion equity and 15.6% basel ratio, already considering the capital increase approved by the Central Bank on January 20.

On Slide 7, we'll present the effects of the increase in the social contribution on net income tax rate. On November, it increased from 15% to 20%, the tax rate applicable to banks. So this change has generated extraordinary results of BRL337 million due to the increase in the DTA. And to offset that impact, we have adopted two following measures. First was BRL141 million write-off of DTA is related to losses, from a subsidiary of Banco PAN to avoid the increase in the consolidated balance of DTA on our book. And also, a very conservative additional provisioning, strengthening our balance sheet.

So these run-off businesses already had a strong level of provision. And for example, the corporate portfolio is now 100% provisioning, excluding guarantees. Even so, we will continue to act in the same way with respect to collection, execution and foreclosure. Therefore, the net effect was only BRL10 million in the quarter, and also in the year, restating the strong operational results that we have in the period.

Regarding the quarterly results on Slide 8, represent some of the highlights. In the first chart, we show the evolution of our NIM, which ended the 4Q at 19.9%, as a result of a strong spread on credit portfolio and also from credit assignment results. The provisions on the retail portfolio remained stable in BRL301 million, showing the assertiveness in credit. And the ALL [ph] expenses over the portfolio ended the quarter at 4.1%, without considering the additional provision mentioned before.

Regarding the expenses, we had an increase in the origination as expected and a relative increase in personnel and administrative expenses. And this growth can be explained by the increase in the number of employees, also investment and expenses related to the digital bank, besides the investments in advertising and marketing campaigns.

Despite that, income before tax reached BRL215 million in the quarter, get into the BRL168 million net income. Emphasizing again, the recurrency of results and showing the bank is assertively following its strategy.

On Slide 9, we present the evolution of our annual figures comparing to 2018. The dynamics are similar to the quarterly figures. And we also see an improvement in the margin, stable credit expenses over the portfolio, general expenses advancing due to the bank growth, and overall delivering an earning before tax and net income much higher than 2018, get into the accumulated net income of BRL516 million in 2019.

On Slide 10, we present the P&L statement with a relocation of the tax rate effect. As we believe this is the best way to analyze the numbers, placing all the adjustments after the earnings before tax. So then we can see the BRL10 million effect considering the net gain in the provisioning.

Regarding the ROE, on slide 11, we have the two measures, the accounting and the adjusted and audited, both analyzed. The ROE accounting -- the accounting ROE in the quarter stood at 13.7%, improving over the comparable quarters. And when you look at the adjusted metric, it also expanded significantly, removing the effects of the fixed-rate time deposits issued between 2005 and 2008. Without that, we would get to BRL227 million net income in the 4Q and BRL737 million in 2019. And also, excluding the effects of the excess of DTAs from our equity, we get to the 24.6% adjusted ROE for the quarter, and 22.5% adjusted ROE for the year.

On the next page, we have the details of origination. We have granted a monthly average of BRL1.8 billion in the quarter, increasing 4% over the last quarter and 24% in the annual comparison. In federal loans, we reach BRL913 million per month in the quarter, 8% less than previous quarter, basically due to seasonality. And on the other hand, we increased 16% in 12 months. Generally, speaking the year starts stronger due to the adjustments in salaries and benefits, this is why we see the seasonality.

In vehicle financing, we had an average origination of BRL540 million per month in the quarter, increasing 15% in the quarter and 30% in 12 months. Transactions with credit cards totaled an average of almost BRL400 million per month, showing also a relevant increase in the quarter and the year comparison. And we believe that the launch of the digital account will contribute a lot here. We received around 500,000 credit requests per month in this quarter and granted credit to an average of 115,000 new clients per month, getting to the 4.9 million clients under management.

On Page 13, we show the composition of our credit portfolio. We see that in the table, despite the reduction in the 4Q payroll remains as the largest portfolio with BRL12.5 billion, we have assigned BRL1.7 billion in this quarter versus BRL1.1 billion in the 3Q19. Besides that, the portfolio increased 16% in 12 months, increasing more than the financial system.

Then we see the vehicle financing portfolio, ending at BRL8.9 billion, advancing 27% year-over-year also, increasing more than the financial system. And the credit card portfolio ended at BRL1.1 billion, increasing 24% in 12 months. Then we have the two declining portfolios, corporate and real estate which ended at BRL732 million and almost BRL500 million, respectively. So we get to the total of BRL24 billion, growing 16% year-over-year.

On Page 14, we present our strategy regarding credit and collection. Since 2017, we have been implementing machine learning models to improve credit decisions, analyzing more than 1,000 variables of structured and non-structured data. All that brings a lot of agility and efficiency on granting credit. And besides that, our clients benefit from a more assertive credits proposal according to their credit profile and personal needs.

We have also been working to improve assertiveness of our collection using data analytics and these the platform. In 2019, for instance, we recovered more than BRL600 million through these platforms, bringing more dynamism and reducing costs. As we saw in the previous slides, the payroll portfolio registered a decrease, mainly due to an increase in the volumes of credit assignment. The decrease of this portfolio has resulted not only in a different portfolio dynamic but also in a change of the mix of products and clients profile on the overall retail portfolio. The combined effect corresponds to 40 of the 50 bps [ph] increase on our nine days NPL. We are very comfortable with this movement because we clearly saw that provisions expenses over portfolio remained stable and the product spread remained at a very robust level.

In payroll, our strategies to keep being irrelevant player focused on federal loans, figuring among the top originators in the INSS loan market. This quarter, we originated BRL2.7 billion in new credits, out of those 92% in loans and 8% in credit card. When you look at the breakdown, the federal represented 88% in 2019, out of which 64% comes from the INSS.

Portfolio ended the quarter at BRL12.5 billion, representing 53% of the total portfolio. And on the digital front, our formalization platform is increasing and we have reached already more than BRL2 billion in credit operations formalized digitally, making the operation more efficient and safe and also more profitable.

On Slide 16, we present more details about the vehicle segment, which is strong growth in the origination, really reaching BRL540 million per month. We're covering a greater number of dealerships more than 11,000 basically due to the efficiency that we have with the digital formalization platform, and also due to the expansion of the commercial team, we went from 400 to 500 employees over the second half.

Our focus remains to find used cars, mainly from -- between four and eight years of use, and new motorcycles in which we are a market leader only excluding a captive finance company. The portfolio kept his growth base, ending the year at BRL8.9 billion with an adequate level of launch value and also long term. By the end of October, we launched the digital formalization platform also for vehicle financing. And by year-end, we had formalized a total of BRL200 million, and this number has been growing at a very strong base.

On Page 17, we show the evolution of our credit cards. We have been improving the credit card origination, issuing credit cards without fees. We issued 177,000 credit cards in this fourth quarter versus only 55,000 in the same period of 2018. All this movement is being leveraged by the increase in transactions, in line with the improvements in cross-sell, improved efficiency in analytics and also CRM, and obviously, a continued development in the high-end journey of this product directly through our website and now also through the digital app.

FINAL

We have also been constantly searching for new partnerships to expand the distribution of these credit cards in the marketplace, and also to offer new co-branded credit cards. The portfolio as I mentioned entered the year at BRL1.1 billion, totaling BRL3.7 billion in a transaction in 2019.

On page 18, we show the evolution of insurances. We originated a monthly average of BRL28 million in premiums into last quarter, basically following the vehicle origination volume. And funding on Slide 19, we presented an increase getting to BRL23.7 billion. Fund deposits remain contributing to the diversification of our fundings, either through markets, direct clients and also distribution platforms. The funding through interbank deposits increasing this quarter, it was a specific movement, just to get the bank ready to start 2020, growing our assets, giving the capital increase approved by the Central Bank on January, and also the stronger seasonality that we see commonly in payroll in the first quarter.

On Slide 20, we have the information about capital. Our Basel ratio stood at 15.6%, considering capital increase of BRL522 million approved by the Central Bank on January.

And with that, we close the presentation and open the line for the question.
